Championship juniors Alpine Ski – Passo San Pellegrino

CURRENT CONDITIONS A dynamic High pressure present all over Mediterranean sea and Central Europe with sunny weather and settled atmospheric conditions on the Alps tends to weak due to Atlantic trough quick crossing at North of the Alps between Wednesday and Thursday. Therefore High pressure temporarily will decrease with falling temperatures, without any effect on our area, except medium-high clouds crossing. In the following days the High will newly build up, with further likely conditions of settled weather, mild again aloft on Thursday. Then there will be a temporary cold air advection with fresh northern flow on the eastern Alps, also fresh between Friday and Saturday.

Sea surface chart h 12 GMT Wednesday 20

Today Sunnier weather with clear sky and very good visibility. Very mild climate aloft, with persistent thermal inversion conditions in the out of the sun areas. Light changeable thermal breezes everywhere.

Freezing level at 12 UTC (m)
